THE CANADIAN CLUB.

The CANADIAN CLUB OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY is composed of such officers, graduates, and undergraduates of the University as are of Canadian birth, or have resided and take an interest in the Dominion of Canada.

Its objects are to afford a means of re-union for Canadian students in the University, and to facilitate the acquisition of information by students in Canada desirous of pursuing advanced courses in this University.

Canadians coming to Harvard are invited to notify beforehand any of the officers or members of the Club, so that they may be welcomed on arrival.

The following summary, though very condensed, will give Canadians some idea of the great resources and superior advantages of Harvard.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY comprehends the following departments: The Graduate School, Harvard College, the Lawrence Scientific School, the Divinity School, the Law School, the Medical School, the Dental School, the School of Veterinary Medicine, the Bussey Institution (a School of Agriculture), the University Library, the University Museum (Zoölogy, Geology, Geography, Botany, Mineralogy), the Botanic Garden, the Herbarium, the Astronomical Observatory, and the Peabody Museum of American Archaeology and Ethnology.

The Staff of Instructors comprises 217 professors, assistant-professors, instructors and assistants. The number of students in attendance in 1889-90 is 2097.

There are 47 buildings, including the Astronomical Observatory, ample laboratories, museums — the floor area of the University Museum alone is 4 acres — dormitories, a dining hall capable of seating 750 persons.

There is a splendid Gymnasium open to all students, affording ample means for exercise. The Weld Boat Club House on the Charles River, near the University, opened in 1890, gives opportunity for boating to all students at a low cost. There are also large grounds laid out for athletic sports of every description, including base ball, cricket, tennis, etc.

THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

Contains 360,400 volumes, exclusive of pamphlets and maps, which number some 350,000. About 11,000 volumes are added each year.

Students have also access to the Boston Public Library (500,000 volumes), and the Cambridge Public Library (125,000 volumes).

The various professional schools of the University, as well as the different departments in the Graduate School and in Harvard College, publish detailed descriptions of the courses offered. Copies of these descriptions may be obtained gratis on application to the Secretary of the University.

EXPENSES.

The average annual expenses of an economical student may be set down at about $475.00 though many have lived comfortably on $400.

Members of any department of the University can board at cost by joining the Association which uses the great dining-hall of Memorial Hall. The cost of board to the members of this association in 1889-90 did not exceed an average of $4.00 a week. The Hall opens on the last Wednesday in September.

About one hundred members of the various departments of the University are admitted annually to the Foxcroft Club, a coöperative organization having commodious quarters adjoining the College yard. Separate articles of wholesome food are furnished to order at cost, making it possible to board at the Club for from $2.00 to $3.00 a week. By using the Club's study and reading rooms and its reference library members are enabled to lodge cheaply at a distance from the University or in suburban towns. The annual fees of the Club are low—$7.50.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY AID FUNDS.

Funds to the amount of over one million two hundred thousand dollars are held in trust for the benefit of deserving students of Harvard University whose means are limited. The income of these funds for the year 1890-91 will amount to about $70,000. It will be distributed in the form of Fellowships, Scholarships, Price Greenleaf Aid, and Beneficiary Money.

PECUNIARY AID IN THE GRADUATE DEPARTMENT.

The Fellowships are twenty-two in number,* of which twenty can be enjoyed only by members of the Graduate Department. The Scholarships are one hundred and sixty-two in number, of which twenty may be enjoyed by Graduate students, one hundred and five by Undergraduates only, and the remainder—thirty-seven—by students in the professional schools.

Some of the Fellowships are assignable only to graduates of Harvard College, but more than half may be held by graduates of other colleges who come to Cambridge for the purpose of graduate study. Applications for any of these Fellowships must be in the hands of the Secretary of the University on or before the last day of March.

* Including the Tyndall Scholarship.

PECUNIARY AID IN THE COLLEGE.

Of the Scholarships assignable to candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, none are promised previous to the student's coming to Cambridge and entering upon his College work. In January of the Freshman year, eight or nine Scholarships are assigned to proper applicants of the highest rank. All other College Scholarships are assigned on the basis of an entire year of successful work in College.

Applications for the Freshman Scholarships must be presented on or before the first day of November of the Freshman year. The aggregate annual income of the College Scholarships is $29,590.

PRICE GREENLEAF AID.

Although College Scholarships are not promised in advance to undergraduates, about $12,000 of the income from the bequest of the late E. Price Greenleaf may be so promised. In order to secure Price Greenleaf Aid, a candidate must obtain from the Secretary of the University, in time to return them before May 1, certain blanks to be used in applying for this aid.

At present it may safely be said that any graduate or student of another college who wishes to come to Cambridge as a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts may, if his rank has been distinctly high, and his recommendations from his teachers are strong, feel sure of receiving from $150 to $250 from the Price Greenleaf Fund during the first year of his residence in Cambridge.

A detailed description of the Harvard University Aid Funds may be had on application to the Secretary.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

Harvard University is in the truest sense non-sectarian. Religious worship is conducted daily in Appleton Chapel, but attendance thereon is wholly voluntary. The most distinguished divines in the country conduct these services, and students have the opportunity not only of hearing but of making the personal acquaintance of the most prominent clergy, such as Rev. Phillips Brooks, Lyman Abbott, and Theodore Munger.

The University pays for sittings in the different Churches in Cambridge, for the use of Students.

LECTURES.

Afternoon and evening lectures are given throughout the Session, on a great variety of topics, not only by the Professors in the University, but by distinguished men in every walk of life and belonging to various countries.

JOURNALISM.

A clever writer can generally find remunerative employment on some of the numerous papers published in Boston.

Practice in editing is also offered by the four papers published by the Students: The Daily Crimson, Advocate, Monthly, Lampoon.

The Law Review and the Quarterly Journal of Economics are published by the University.

CLUBS.

Apart from the College Societies and the Social and Athletic Clubs, the following organizations afford Students numerous opportunities for exchange of views in particular lines of work :—
